

Update Adwoa November 2021

Hello,

This is an update from October till November. My academics have been marvellous so far. And very soon, the results will be published on the school's portal. I formerly joined a Non-governmental Organisation called Teen Health Ghana. We joined the staff of Tamale Teaching Hospital to undertake some breast screening exercises in some churches, towns and villages as part of breast cancer awareness. It was an enlightening experience

I also began publishing. I just created a blog on WordPress called The Pishon Blog, where I wrote on Christian related articles.

Its been a year of growth for me. I am proud of myself too. Attached to this mail are some pictures.

Warm regards, Adwoa
