

Dear I-STEPUP,

I want to use this opportunity to extend my sincere apology for the delay in sending my update as time stipulated. The reason is that I am currently using manual phone which is making it for very difficult to access most of the messages you are sending me. I just discovered that you have asked us to update you about our current academic activities when I used one of my friend's phone to log in my mail. Please I am sorry for that. The below sentences contain my new updates.

To start with, my year two to year three has been a colorful and educative one as I have gotten plethora of nursing experience which is was able to get during my year one. In my year two I was introduced to new modules like Pediatrics, Mental health, etc. This new module has given me new experience about children and also how to handle mentally ill people in providing care for them. I also participated in class presentation which help to build confidence in me.

However, I was also sent for clinical posting which lasted for a period of about four months. In the clinical posting I was exposed in various clinical procedures like iv cannulation, catheterization NG tube insertion and many more. I understand that being posted in the ward for practical work makes you to know the work more as compare to being in class. I also understand that nursing is more practical work. I was even thought how to carry out minor surgical procedure and stitching techniques for minor incision.

Moreover, I am currently in class taking classes preparing for school final exam and state board exam. But before that they will have to post us for public health in villages. I am also going to expose myself in new procedure and also meet with different people. In that public health clinical posting I will be learning about under five services and also delivery of a pregnant woman and how to take care of that woman after she has delivered.

In conclusion I believe the above have given you a clue about my just concluded and current academic activities. Once again I am sorry for the late response.

Thanks

Momoh jawara
