

My name is Achileus M. Angelus, a clinical medicine student at Mayday institute of science and technology . Last year I was in the first year of my study and actually it seemed very difficult for me to cop up with the studies but I thank God I managed to pass all the exams. This year I have planned to make sure that I attend all the sessions which are being taught during classes and clinical rotations and i will make sure that I will practice on how to clack patient’s history and on how to provide specific managements to patients with different cases. And about the results of this semester we have not yet done the examination where we shall start the examination on 16th March 2026 and l expect to be given out on 17th April 2026.

Also in this year I want to improve more in my practical skills because as a future medical officer it is very important to know how to handle patients in real situation not only theory. Sometimes during ward rounds I feel not confident to speak but I am trying slowly to ask questions and learn from my seniors and doctors. I also plan to read more books and discussion with my fellow students so that we can help each other to understand difficult topics. Life at campus is not easy because there is some challenges like financial problems and sometimes lack of enough materials but we are struggling and continuing with studies. I believe with hard work and prayers I will reach my goals and become a good doctor who can serve my community and help many people especially in rural areas where medical services are still limited.
