

My name is Chan Wieu Ngor, I am a 24 year old south sudanese living in Nairobi, Kenya. I come from a humble background, a place called Maraai Baai rural area in South Sudan, born into a Christian family. I am the third born in a family of five.

My father moved us to Nairobi in 2010 for higher education and I've been in Kenya for the most part of my life. I have experienced good moments and sad moments especially in 2024 when my mom passed on due to cancer. Life in Nairobi is not easy, it's a place where money is everything, for food, rent and many things. I have been fortunate enough to finish my high school even though I had some ups and downs.

My plan is to go to university and finish my studies in nursing. I would love to push my studies further in the future to other areas in the medical field such as doctor and surgeon. Currently I do not have any job, I want to use this youthful years of my life to finish school.

My dream is to be financially stable and help so many people and also be able to help educate children unable to pay for school fees. I want to use my knowledge and skills in hospital to be able to help thousands of lives.
